'Hockey is who he is': MacKinnon's mom

All grown up.

Parents of Cole Harbour standout open up about son's journey to Sunday's NHL draft

RANKIN

Graham and Kathy MacKinnon admit they were nervous.

The moment can be traced back to three years ago after they arrived with their then 14-year-old son Nathan at Shattuck-Saint Mary's prep school in Faribault, Minn. He would embark on the next stage of his blossoming hockey career.

Eventually it was time for goodbyes. Nathan was on his own; he was beaming.

"He was so pumped, so happy," remembers Kathy. "I was thinking he might have second thoughts or their might be tears in his eyes. But he was happy, excited because he saw the big picture. He wanted the challenge."

Indeed he was. In two seasons suiting up for the school's team, which fellow Cole Harbour native and NHL superstar Sidney Crosby had played for,

Quoted

"My parents make up the foundation of who I am as a person and a player." Nathan MacKinnon

MacKinnon racked up 194 points in just 98 games.

Since then, the now 17-year-old's remarkable success has been well documented right up to his latest accomplishment: leading the Halifax
Mooseheads to their first-ever Memorial Cup, complete with MVP honours.

He saw to it that his parents and sister were right there with him on the ice celebrating.

He's forfeited plenty of teenage pleasures. But whatever he might have lost along the way he has more than made up for in his relentless pursuit to be his best.

"Hockey is who he is," says Kathy. "I know it might sound hokey but it is what he wants to do."

Graham, who Kathy calls Nathan's coach, mentor and sounding board, agrees.

"It's about him chasing his dream," says Graham. "It's not really a sacrifice. He's doing something that he loves to do."

Nathan's ultimate goal will come within a hair of being realized at Sunday's NHL draft where he's widely predicted to be the No. 1 pick.

But the MacKinnons couldn't care less whether he goes first, second or third.

"It's such a great new chapter for him. Whether he comes back here next fall or goes to an NHL team, it doesn't matter," says Kathy. "Getting his name called on Sunday is just so exciting."

Inevitably the pressure will mount. Cole Harbour's golden boy will be in a league of men fighting to make a mark in the unforgiving world of the NHL.
But other 18-year-olds have done it, and his parents have no doubt Nathan will too.

Inevitable comparisons to Crosby will continue. But he's dealt with that long ago.

"I always said, You don't have to be Sidney Crosby, just be yourself, but just work like Sidney Crosby," says Graham.
"But we never have compared Nathan to anyone."

'It's about attitude': Cole Harbour stars burn bright

Small-town NHLers.

With Nathan MacKinnon set to join hockey's elite, premier, former Stanley Cup champ weigh in on suburb's history of producing stars

Extra iron in the water? Secret government lab conducting Captain America-type experiments?

Jor-El quietly sending the rest of his progeny to earth and not noticing they keep landing in the same place?

Joe DiPenta
METRO FILE

As yet another Cole Harbour hockey phenom prepares to join the NHL, some of his predecessors are sharing theories on how the little suburb of HRM keeps churning out shiny superstars.

And their theories, sadly, are kind of dull.

"It was a lot of people that got behind local sports and a lot of young families, a lot of kids who all loved playing street hockey," said Joe DiPenta, the former Anaheim defenceman who first brought the Stanley Cup to Cole Harbour's streets. "We were such a close-knit family in the hockey community."

DiPenta won the Cup in 2007, two years before Sidney Crosby's electrifying championship season with the Pittsburgh Penguins in 2009.

Now, Mooseheads forward Nathan MacKinnon is widely expected to be the top pick in Sunday's NHL draft after leading the Herd to both its first President Cup and then eclipsing rival top draft pick Seth Jones in the Memorial Cup.

DiPenta said it is "amazing" to have two top-ranked hockey players come out of a small town, but said it may be more about role models — like Mooseheads GM Cam Russell — than rationed supplies of Popeye's spinach. "When I was growing up, when I thought of Cam playing for the Black-hawks, it made me feel like it was possible," he said.

Top-ranked lightweight UFC fighter TJ Grant and multiple-award winning singer-songwriter Matt Mays also hail from Cole Harbour, but Premier and Cole Harbour MLA Darrell Dexter said the tradition of stars is simply a product of a close-knit community and good role models.

"I don't think there's anything in the water, I think it's about attitude, and success breeds success," he said.

"People look around, they see other kids being successful and they aspire to that."

'No. 1'

Premier makes pugnacious NHL draft prediction

In a bit of a change-up, it's Premier Darrell Dexter who's voting for one of his constituents this weekend — or he would if he could.

Cole Harbour's Nathan MacKinnon is expected to be one of the top two NHL draft picks on Sunday, and Dexter had a firm opinion on how it should play out.

"From my perspective, anything other than going No. 1 would be an injustice," said Dexter Thursday.

Portland Winterhawks defenceman Seth Jones was expected to be top pick, prior to the Memorial Cup final in which the Mooseheads trounced the Winterhawks.

"I'm sure Seth Jones is a great kid too, but quite frankly, during the Memorial Cup, Nathan undressed him a few times," said Dexter. METRO

Rehtaeh Parsons case. Parents to receive review, records from IWK

The IWK Health Centre says it will provide Rehtaeh Parsons' parents with recommendations from a peer review of the care she received last year after they voiced concerns about her treatment.

Rehtaeh Parsons
FACEBOOK

The internal medical report focuses on Parsons' specific treatments and medical record. It is distinct from an external review announced this week that will examine policies and procedures more generally.

Parsons was admitted to the IWK in March 2012, about five months after she was allegedly sexually assaulted and became suicidal. The 17-year-old Cole Harbour girl hanged herself in April and was taken off life-support three days later.

Glen Canning said he has a number of concerns about his daughter's treatment, including a lack of focus on her depression and trauma from the alleged sexual assault.

He also said his daughter told him she was strip-searched by two male employees near the end of her stay. "It (the search) destroyed her trust in them and after that it was a matter of trying to get her out of the hospital," he said on Thursday.

But Anne McGuire, president and CEO of the IWK, said the hospital stands by a June 8 news release that said Parsons "was not stripped nor strip-searched by two men while in our care."

She said she cannot provide further details about the matter because of privacy legislation.

McGuire said she is hopeful that the meeting will address the parents' concerns about their daughter's treatment. "Our offer is to review the record with them. Our practice is to sit with the family, go through the record and answer any questions they may have," she said.

Charges laid. Man struck in crosswalk while walking with daughter

Police have charged an 84-year-old man with failing to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk after a car-pedestrian collision in Dartmouth on Thursday.

Just after 11 a.m., police say the victim was crossing Wyse Road in a marked crosswalk with his five-year-old daughter at the intersection of Boland Road when he was hit by the vehicle.

The man suffered minor

Police ID crash victim

Police have released the name of a Halifax man who died in a motorcycle crash on Highway 101 near Windsor on Wednesday. RCMP say Edward Lesley Higdon was killed when his motorcycle crossed the centre line and crashed into a guardrail at about 4 p.m. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Police are investigating. METRO

Vandals strike at Public Gardens

Two young males went on a window-smashing spree at the Public Gardens on Wednesday, police say. A witness reported seeing the pair breaking windows at the Uncommon Grounds coffee shop at 7:30 p.m., and then smashing a planter inside the Public Gardens, police say. The two were nabbed on South Park Street and a 15-year-old was charged with public mischief. METRO

Investigation. Incident happened in field behind Dartmouth junior high school

PHILIP

The province's Serious Incident Response Team (SIRT) is investigating after a Halifax Regional Police officer shot a man who was allegedly armed.

Police say the officer fired his gun at the man when the shooting victim threatened him and another officer with a weapon on Thursday night.

Police won't confirm what the weapon was, but a source says it was a knife.

"Our investigation has commenced and it will continue for a while," SIRT director Ron MacDonald said. "There are a number of witnesses we need to speak to."

Police say the incident began on Gaston Road at 7:07 p.m., when the victim allegedly pulled a weapon on two plainclothes officers in relation to an ongoing investigation.

The man fled on foot and patrol officers eventually spotted him on the ball field behind Prince Arthur Junior High School.

Police allege the victim then confronted the two offi-

Staff Sgt. Bill Morris wouldn't say how many shots were fired.

After the shooting, police turned the matter over to SIRT, which was on scene investigating Thursday night.

MacDonald would not confirm that the victim was armed with a knife. He also wouldn't say how many shots the officer fired.

"It usually takes some months," MacDonald said as to how long its investigation might take.

Victim survived

The victim was taken to the QEII hospital with what are believed to be non-life-threatening injuries.

Empire sells theatre business to Cineplex

Empire Company Ltd. is getting out of the movie-theatre business to focus on Sobeys, the national grocery chain that accounts for most of the Stellar-ton-based company's revenue.

Canada's largest cinema company, Cineplex Inc., will pay $200 million in cash to acquire 26 of the theatres — all 24 of the Empire theatres in Atlantic Canada and two in Ontario.

Cineplex said the deal is strategically important since it gives the Toronto-based company a presence in Canada's four easternmost provinces.

The theatres that Cineplex is acquiring generated $113 million in total revenue in 2012, RBC analyst Haran Posner said in a note.

Another 20 Empire theatres in Ontario and Western Canada will be sold to Landmark Cinemas for up to $55 million.

"We're not going to be operating four theatres in three different provinces," Empire spokesman Andrew Walker said.

The company will use the proceeds of the sale to pay down debt, he said.

'Find your voice and speak'

Art and activism.

El Jones named new poet laureate for Halifax

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

For El Jones, the power of art is walking into a prison in rural New Brunswick and connecting with a middle-aged man, then turning to perform slam poetry with young boys in Halifax's north end.

Jones, a teacher and spoken-word activist, was officially welcomed as HRM's new poet laureate Thursday afternoon.

In her speech, Jones said she was proud to represent the community groups that helped her along the way and developed her interest in social justice.

"Even when you're afraid and people don't like what you have to say ... find your voice and speak," said Jones.

Outgoing mayor's poet laureate Tanya Davis, left, smiles for photos with new poet laureate El Jones at city hall on Thursday. JEFF HARPER/METRO

"You have something to say that nobody else can, so keep fighting for your voice and I promise you someone will listen."

Jones recited a poem created with the help of 100 responses on Facebook about people's best and worst Halifax experiences, which were often connected.

"They'd say their worst experience was homophobia, but best experience was the vigil for Raymond Taavel," she said.

Jones has done prison outreach and volunteers with Center Line Studio near Uniacke Square, where kids record their own songs or rap together.

Tanya Davis, outgoing poet laureate, said she's excited to see what Jones will do in the position.

"It's a bit of an overwhelming title, and it's also a joyful one," Davis said.

During her two-year term, Jones said she wants people to realize their own stories are poetry, and she wants to hold a night where kids can share poems or talk.

"So many people are having conversations about our youth and what they're doing, and nobody's actually talking to the youth," Jones said.

"If we could ... understand what they're saying, that would be important for me to do right away."

She would also like to see an event where people write poetry on the street and share it out loud, especially those who are homeless.

"I think art is a big way that we can learn and humanize each other," Jones said.

New talks planned in paramedics dispute

In legal strike position July 5. Final details still being ironed out

Nova Scotia's labour minister won't say whether the government would legislate the province's 800 paramedics back to work in the event of a strike next week.

Frank Corbett said Thursday that he's hopeful both parties will sort out their issues as plans were being made to resume negotiations with a conciliator.

"I would hope that by the conciliator bringing them back ... that they would have that clear vision," he said. "We want the parties to resolve this on their own."

Stacey Brown of Emergency Medical Care Inc. said the company hoped to meet soon with the union's bargaining team and was waiting to hear from Local 727 of the International Union of Operating Engineers on the final logistics.

Corbett said speculating on back-to-work legislation "is just presumptive." However, he added that legislation would not take long to write, if necessary.

Last week, union members voted 73 per cent against a deal that would have given paramedics a defined-benefits pension plan, one of their key demands.

At information pickets this week, paramedics said they're also seeking a 15 per cent pay hike over three years rather than the 11.1 per cent over almost five years that was offered in the rejected agreement.

Paramedic Dave Matheson said members are trying to reach parity with their counterparts in other provinces. "We've been trying to play catch-up for 17 years," he said.

He said a paramedic's average hourly wage is about $24 in Nova Scotia, compared to about $35 for paramedics in other cities in Ontario.

Selling something online? Get ID, police say, after motorcycle stolen on test drive

Police are reminding the public to take precautions when selling any property online after a Lakeside man had his motorcycle taken for a very long test drive.

At about 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday, RCMP received a report of a motorcycle theft from a home on St. Margaret's Bay Road in Lakeside.

The victim had posted an online ad to sell his bike. A with the motorcycle.

The suspect is described as white, six feet tall and about 25 to 30 years old. He was wearing blue jeans, a black T-shirt and black shoes.

Police urge anyone who is selling an item to take identification from a potential buyer, and hold on to the ID when they test your property.

Cops rescue man who jumped into Bedford pond

Halifax Regional Police say two of its officers jumped into a Bedford pond to rescue a man who was trying to swim away from police.

Just after 1 a.m. on Thursday, police patrolling the area near Moirs Pond, which is next to the Sobeys on the Bedford Highway, saw someone acting suspiciously.

When the man noticed two officers approaching him, he suddenly jumped into the pond and swam away from them. The man eventually began to tire and called for help well out into the water.

That's when the two officers jumped into action, finding a life preserver from a dock on nearby DeWolfe Park, and then swimming out to the man and pulling him to shore.

The man wasn't injured, but was taken by paramedics to hospital for a medical assessment. METRO

Activists burn their cause into bodies, minds

Animal-rights activists use a hot iron to brand one of their own with the number 269 in Prague on Wednesday. Ten others had the same done to their bodies. The movement 269 Life was launched with a public branding in Tel Aviv last year and has since mushroomed around the globe. The group, like other animal liberation movements, opposes the use of animals for human consumption, research or entertainment, going far beyond demands by more moderate groups. The group's name is derived from a number branded on a calf that activists encountered at an Israeli dairy farm last year. PETR DAVID JOSEK/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mailorder-bride ring busted in Philippines

Human trafficking.

Women promised wealth and security end up abused, unhappy

Philippine authorities have rescued 29 women after busting a mailorder-bride business and arresting two South Koreans and their four local partners, a police official said Thursday.

Police raided a house Wednesday in Bacoor city near Manila used by the syndicate and found the women, including a 16-year-old girl, said Chief Superintendent Reginald Villasanta, executive director of the Presidential Anti-Organized Crime Commission.

The syndicate collects thousands of dollars in fees from Korean men seeking Filipino wives, telling them falsely that the money will go to the women's families, Villasanta said.

Villasanta says the women are promised a prosperous life in South Korea but often end up abused or in unhappy marriages.

"We have rescued 29 (Filipino women) who were duped into promises of an instant wealthy life through marriage with Korean gentlemen, although in most cases they ended up on the losing end after becoming victims of grave abuses," Villasanta said.

He said there are an estimated 10,000 Filipino women married to South Koreans.

Poverty and the lack of employment have forced millions of Filipinos to find work abroad and some to seek marriage with foreigners, most with hopes of a better life and being able to support their families back home.

Congo. Rape of nine girls, the youngest 18 months old, rattles UN officials

The UN is raising the alarm about the recent rape of nine young girls in conflict-ridden eastern Congo, the youngest 18 months old. Two of the girls died, though their ages weren't released.

Two officials say the girls were admitted to Panzi Hospital in South Kivu province over the past two months with serious internal wounds.

UN special representative to Congo Roger Meece and UNICEF representative Barbara Bentein released their statement through UN deputy spokesman Eduardo del Buey on Thursday.

Disturbing crimes

The UN has said various armed groups are behind rapes in eastern Congo. The Congolese army and M23 rebels also have been accused of rapes.

The officials said two suspects have been arrested, but they urged Congolese authorities to follow through with the "prosecution of all perpetrators involved in this despicable practice."

Filipino nanny abuse

Vancouver man charged with human trafficking

A B.C. Supreme Court jury found a Vancouver man guilty of human trafficking Wednesday night, which Franco Yiu Kwan Orr's lawyer says is a first in Canada.

Orr was also found guilty of employing a foreign national, specifically his Filipino nanny Leticia Sarmiento, illegally, and making a misrepresentation that could induce an error in the administration of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act.

However, the jury acquitted his partner, Oi

Ling Nicole Huen, of human trafficking and employing a foreign national illegally.

"My clients are in shock, frankly, they're stunned," said defence lawyer Nicholas Preovolos outside of court, noting the jury apparently believed the allegations against Orr but not Huen.

"It's odd, and it's frustrating for them."

The Crown declined to comment on the verdict.

Calgary mayor blasts CP Rail after bridge fails over river

'Looking for a lot of answers.' Mayor Naheed Nenshi and CP CEO Hunter Harrison agree to work more on safety together in the future

Calgary's mayor says Canadian Pacific Railway has apologized for the chaos caused by a train that derailed after a bridge over the swollen Bow River failed.

Naheed Nenshi says he's had a conversation with CP CEO Hunter Harrison and they both agreed to work together more on safety.

Nenshi lashed out at CP earlier in the day, suggesting the company did a poor job inspecting its bridge after a recent flooding.

"How is it we don't have regulatory authority over this, but it's my guys down there risking their lives to fix it?" Nenshi asked earlier Thursday.

is over, I'll be looking for a lot of answers from a lot of people. When was that bridge inspected? Why was it not inspected after Saturday? Remember, on Saturday the Bow River was still running higher than anyone had ever seen in their lifetimes," Nenshi said.

"I'll be very blunt. I'll probably get in trouble for saying this," Nenshi added. "We've seen a lot of people lose their jobs at CP over the last year.

How many bridge inspectors did they fire?"

Harrison said several inspections were done on the bridge, adding that the structure was checked five times after floodwaters rose, but piers at the bottom of the river failed.

He says divers would normally have been sent down to look at the bottom of the bridge, but the water was too murky and swift to do that safely.

He said the bridge's failure is as "extraordinary" as the heavy rains and flooding in southern Alberta.

Feds a step closer to eliminating long-gun registry

The Harper government has won the latest round in its battle to delete the last remaining portion of the federal long-gun registry.

The Quebec Court of Appeal said the province has no right to the registry data.

The registry could, in theory, be destroyed in two weeks. The ruling said the government must wait that long before deleting the Quebec data.

Pockwock Water Transmission Main Upgrade

Beginning the evening of Friday, July 5th, Halifax Water will be performing a scheduled shutdown to a section of the Pockwock water transmission main on Kearney Lake Road to allow for the renewal of 1.7km of 1200mm. diameter pipe at a cost of $11 million. The Pockwock water supply serves customers in Halifax, Bedford, Sackville, Fall River, Waverley, and Timberlea, though not all customers will be affected by this work.

In order to facilitate this work, flow from the Pockwock water transmission main will be shut down for approximately 24 hours, beginning the evening of Friday, July 5th with customers supplied by a system of reservoirs, flows from Dartmouth via the MacDonald Bridge water line, and possibly the Chain Lake back-up water supply. Due to flow reversal in the distribution system, discoloured water may be experienced in some areas of Halifax and Dartmouth.

If the Chain Lake back-up water supply is activated, a boil water advisory will be issued for affected customers.

Should a boil water advisory be issued, some customers on the Halifax side of the harbour (see attached map) will be required to boil their water as a precautionary measure. Only customers within the defined area on the map will be required to boil their water.

All Halifax Water customers are asked to reduce water usage (i.e. lawn/garden watering, car washing, pool filling, washing of laundry etc.) on July 5th, 6th, and 7th while this phase of the project is undertaken as this will reduce the need to activate the Chain Lake supply and the resulting boil water advisory.

Superstorm victim's body lay hidden for more than 5 months

Forgotten victim.

Search-and-rescue teams searched 30,000 homes in areas hit by storm, but didn't think to enter trailer in vacant lot

In the chaotic days after Superstorm Sandy, an army of aid workers streamed onto the flood-ravaged Rockaway Peninsula looking for anyone who needed help.

Health workers and National Guard troops went door to door. City inspectors checked thousands of dwellings for damage. Seaside neighbourhoods teemed with utility crews, Red Cross trucks and crews clearing debris.

Yet, even as the months dragged on, nobody thought to look inside the tiny construction trailer rusting away in a junk-filled lot at the corner of Beach 40th Street and Rockaway Beach Boulevard.

If they had, they would have found the body of Keith Lancaster, a quiet handyman who appeared to have been using the trailer as a home the night Sandy sent 1.5 metres of water churning through the neighbourhood.

It took until April 5 before an acquaintance finally went to check on the 62-year-old's whereabouts and found his partially skeletonized remains. His body lay near a calendar that hadn't been turned since October and prescription pill bottles last refilled in the fall.

New York City's medical examiner announced this week that Lancaster had

The Mafia connection

An Italian crime clan's reach into Canada

Italian prosecutors are calling for a Thunder Bay, Ont. man to be sent to prison for 19 years if found guilty of Mafia charges in a trial authorities say highlights the global reach of a secretive organized crime clan from the Calabrian region of southern Italy all the way to small-town Canada.

Giuseppe Bruzzese, 66, who was arrested while in Italy in 2011, is accused of "Mafia association" — a serious crime there, which has no comparable offence in Canada — after being caught on secret police recordings meeting with a top crime boss in that country.

His trial — and outstanding Italian arrest warrants issued for three other Thunder Bay residents, including a successful local businessman — may shed light on the connection between the town and a powerful Mafia organization called the 'Ndrangheta.

Also listed in the arrest warrants are Antonio Minnella, 72; Rocco Etroni, 66; and Cosimo Cirillo, 55. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

India. Journalist fired after riding on villager's back in news clip

An Indian cable-news channel has fired a journalist who sat on the shoulders of a villager so his feet didn't get wet in ankle-deep water while covering floods in India's Uttarakhand state.

"What he did was very inhuman. You cannot ride on someone's back for a story. We terminated him on Tuesday," Nishant Chaturvedi, channel head at News Express, told The Telegraph.

Narayan Pargaien triggered outrage after a video showing him speaking into the camera while sitting on the shoulders of a villager went viral online.

The reporter said the stunt wasn't his idea, and then made a bad situation worse when he blamed his cameraman. He also claimed that the survivor, who can be seen wobbling under the strain while standing in ankle-deep water, put him onto his shoulders as a sign of respect.

Chaturvedi said the channel did not broadcast the clip because it found it "highly distasteful."

"He sent the clip to us. We were shocked to see him sitting on the poor man. You have to be a part of the people and not ride on them," he said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Nelson Mandela's health improved overnight Wednesday, and although his condition remains critical, it is now stable, the South African government said on Thursday.

The report that the health of the 94-year-old anti-apartheid leader had taken a turn for the better came amid a growing sense in South Africa that Mandela was approach-

Revolution 2.0 for Egypt?

Egyptians watch President Mohammed Morsi's televised speech at a bar in Cairo, Wednesday. All eyes are on Egypt as the country is set once again for massive protests, expected on Sunday. MANU BRABO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A nation in a state of agitation. Unrest in Egypt could reach a tipping point Sunday, the 1-year anniversary of Brotherhood rule

deena.douara@metronews.ca

Two days after I arrive in Cairo to see family earlier this month, my uncle whisks me away to a protest at the Ministry of Culture.

That's Egypt today: Protests have become a family affair. With this weekend marking the one-year anniversary of the Muslim Brotherhood taking power, you worry about the safety of loved ones.

This particular protest on June 11 turns out to be a chi-chi demonstration in a wealthy Cairo neighbourhood. President Mohammed Morsi has replaced the culture minister and others with Muslim Brotherhood members. Many criticize the changes as crude and corrupt, though others suggest he must excise old officials to begin anew.

I lived in Egypt for five years until 2009, and visited again months after the 2011 revolution. It was a time of uncertainty and insecurity but also of some optimism and rebuild-

Quoted

"Before, people protested on Fridays. Now it's Sunday, Tuesday, Saturday, Monday; doctors, teachers, judges, those protesting the lack of gas, water, employment, those cut off from their land and whose salaries have been cut. Every day there's something."

Samia Aly, Deena Douara's aunt, who plans to protest for as long as it takes to get rid of Morsi.

ing. That has all but vanished.

The one-year anniversary is Sunday. Protests have already begun and bloodshed is expected. People are asking if we'll become like Syria? Could Salafis win an election? What of the plummeting economy and security?

On a stage outside the ministry, a Tahrir Square protest singer performs a call-and-response song. Artists and intellectuals dot the crowd.

Individuals stand between cars with petitions calling for early elections, and people honk in support.

The next day, I eye a young man in the women's-only metro car with suspicion. After other vendors pass, he rallies the women to demonstrate on the 30th. There will be buses to three sites, and if you can't go then protest in front of your home, he insists. "Don't be afraid," he yells, repeatedly. A woman tells the rest to say "Amen."

Another woman confronts him, telling him that we all know where his support really comes from. Other passengers are pragmatic. "We have to give (Morsi) time, we need stability."

Days later, on the metro again, a woman calls for signatures. "Everyone's signed by now," a passenger tells her. Arguments erupt across the evening car.

I was with a friend when a stylish young woman said she wouldn't sign — she and her husband work in tourism and just as things are getting to normal, protests threaten their livelihoods.

I walk with a friend the next day around Old Cairo. An older man mutters to nobody that Morsi will be good for the country so there will be fewer people like us around. Tourists? Women? Women without a headscarf? Only the disdain is understood.

When I take a cab home with a woman already inside, it's clear they've been discussing politics. The driver asks if I've signed the petition. I hesitate and they wonder aloud if perhaps my father is Brotherhood. He is not. Later when I jot in my notepad, he half-jokingly suspects I'm recording their information.

The woman doesn't know whether to blame Morsi or the revolution for unemployment that's driven young neighbours to drug addiction. The driver, too, had lost his job as a government staffer. When she says the old regime was better, the driver disagrees; he says the 30th had better not mean bringing back the old.

In my last days I visit conservative relatives and wonder whether they support the Brotherhood. I learn they don't — my cousin thinks Morsi is incompetent, idiotic and deceitful (the most common criticism against the Brotherhood). But he thinks things could get much worse. The opposition have no plan, no candidate. Blood will be shed, and for what? He fears that old regime sympathizers, even posing as Brotherhood, to incite violence.

I leave Egypt confused. And worried. I have family members on the front lines. Relatives have lost everything in the plunging economy and once-proud Egyptians are witnessing the decline of their country as it's torn along religious and sectarian lines.

And I wait to see what will become of Egypt's second — perhaps — revolution in my lifetime.

Jailed Muslims formed prison gangs: Warden

Terrorism. Judge is told John Walker Lindh, other Muslims, bullied fellow inmates when allowed to pray together in groups

The warden of a U.S. prison holding American Taliban fighter John Walker Lindh insisted Thursday that he was obeying a court order to allow daily group prayer by permitting inmates to pray in pairs within their cells.

Warden John Oliver told a federal judge that when the prison allowed group prayer earlier this year, Muslim inmates formed gangs and bullied other prisoners.

Lindh attended the hearing by video conference from the high-security unit that houses him and about 40 other inmates, including several convicted on terror charges.

A U.S. District judge ruled in January that barring Lindh and his fellow Muslims from engaging in daily group prayer violates a 1993 law that bans the government from curtailing religious speech. The judge issued an order demanding that the prison allow group prayer.

Ken Falk, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Indiana, filed a motion in Lindh's name in April asking the judge to find the prison warden in contempt. The motion argued that the warden allowed only three group prayers per day in a single room, instead of the five that Lindh said his faith requires.

But Oliver said he believed he was balancing inmates' religious rights with the security needs of the special unit that severely restricts inmates' communications with the outside world.

Philippines. Women held captive wanted to tell world of minority's plight: Family

Amnesty International and the family of two Filipino-Algerian sisters called for suspected Islamic militants to release the women, saying Thursday that they are human rights defenders and filmmakers who focused on the plight of Muslims in the Philippines.

Nadjoua and Linda Bansil were taken by about 10 suspected Abu Sayyaf militants Saturday in the southern town of Patikul while working on a short film about Muslim coffee farmers. At least three companions of the sisters were left behind, police said.

Their brother, Mohammed Bansil, noted that his sisters were seized while tackling the very issues at the root of the decades-old minority Muslim unrest in the country's south.

Ritz Lee Santos, who heads Amnesty International Philippines, said the sisters are long-time human rights volunteers.

"It's sad that they were taken because they went to Sulu to tell the whole country about the struggles of poor Muslims," he said.

CRTC gives green light to Astral deal

Second time around. Bell's revised takeover bid approved after firm promises to sell some specialty TV channels and radio stations

Bell has won regulatory approval for its second bid to buy Astral Media and its coveted suite of TV specialty channels and radio stations in a deal worth $3.4 billion.

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission announced its decision Thursday after markets closed.

The CRTC rejected Bell's initial bid for Astral last fall, saying it wasn't in the best interests of Canadians.

But the regulator said the revised bid — in which Bell agreed to sell some of Astral's specialty TV channels and radio stations — satisfied its concerns that the company would be too dominant in the market.

"The commission concludes that the transaction as modified in this decision is in the public interest and advances

Coveted content

- Bell's parent company, BCE Inc., has said it wants to buy Astral to put its content across traditional TV, computers, smartphones and tablets.
- Astral's English pay TV service, The Movie Network, and French-language pay TV service Super Ecran would be key providers of shows and movies.

the objectives set out for the Canadian broadcasting system in the (Broadcasting) Act," the CRTC said in its decision.

The Public Interest Advocacy Centre, which acted as counsel for a number of consumer groups and opposed the bid, said it too was disappointed by the CRTC's decision.

"Canada will now have an unprecedented level of media concentration and vertical integration and a weaker diversity of voices with the loss of Astral, a strong independent broadcaster," Janet Lo, a lawyer for the advocacy group, said in a statement. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eiffel Tower reopens after strike

France's Eiffel Tower has reopened after a rare two-day workers' strike. The union representing most of the Eiffel Tower's 300 workers called the walkout Tuesday during negotiations this week over salary raises, company profit-sharing policy and other issues. The 124-year-old tower gets about 25,000 tourists daily — like the couple seen in this photo on a rainy day this past May. Though it is scheduled to be open every day, it occasionally closes because of suicide threats, bomb threats — or strikes.

Pay equity. Canada Post, union end 30-year fight

The cheques are finally going in the mail. Canada Post and the Public Service Alliance of Canada have reached a settlement in the country's longest running pay-equity dispute.

"We are extremely happy about this. I'm very proud of our victory," said PSAC national president Robyn Benson. "It's a long time in coming. It's been 30 years."

Benson says as many as 30,000 people could be eligible for a portion of the settlement, which is estimated at $250 million with interest.

Cheques will begin to be sent out in August, but Canada Post cautions that it is a slow process to calculate how much each eligible individual receives. A spokesman said 60

Another era

- When the union first filed the complaint in 1983, Pierre Trudeau was still prime minister and millions watched the final episode of the television show MASH.
- The union argued that 2,300 mostly female clerical employees were doing comparable work to the mostly male letter-sorters and carriers, but earned substantially less.

Aeroplan. Points should be easier to redeem, firm says

The company that runs the Aeroplan customer loyalty program wants to make its travel rewards easier to accumulate and to redeem and is prepared to replace CIBC as its bank credit-card partner.

Aimia Inc. said Thursday that it's ready to partner with TD Bank in 2014 and drop CIBC at the end of this year unless CIBC matches contractual terms offered by TD.

Aimia chief executive Rupert Duchesne said Aeroplan is still tops in Canada but competition from RBC's Visa Avion credit card and from TD's Travel Visa card has been a factor.

"I want to see Aeroplan become the undisputable No. 1 again and to do that we need to grow and we'll only grow if we have a better proposition for Aeroplan members," Duchesne said.

That means making it easier for consumers who want to use their points for travel. Duchesne noted that it can take more time and points for holders of the Aeroplan Classic Visa, one of the cards offered by CIBC, to redeem travel points.

LIES YOUR MOTHER TOLD YOU

1 Oh Canada (Say whaa?). CBC Music wanted to spice up our country's national anthem for Canada Day, so they recruited domestic beat boxer KRNFX, national vocal treasure Maiko Watson, and seasoned producer Ian Blackwood. The result is a righteous hip-hop groove for young Liberals and New Democrats alike. Check them out on YouTube, yo! One time (one time).

2 Smartscreen. Research from the University of London ends a tradition of lies parents perpetuated about the harmful effects of TV. The study revealed that kids who watched more did better in school than their more moderate-viewing counterparts. Subsequent studies also showed that your dog likely did not retire to a ranch, your face will not stay like that, and no matter how many times you do it, you will not go blind!

4 Boyfriend. Media reports show that Biebs is taking his bad-ass image to the next level by publicly making out with a married woman. At 22 years old, Jordan Ozuna has been separated almost as long as she was married, but she is still married, according to her estranged mother-in-law. Yet she fools around with Biebs.

5 Growing up Kardashian. Despite endowing their child with the moniker of North West, sources close to the couple say that Kim and Kanye are wonderful parents. Kim says she enjoys being a mother. Sure, it's tough, waking up in the middle of the day, supervising the nanny, looking out for possible allergies to fruits or nuts, or unnatural fabrics, but as long as she can hold her baby for just a few minutes before each mani-pedi, it's all worth it.

6 C'est la vie. This week in 1974, French crooner Charles Aznavour hit No. 1 in the U.K. with She. At 50, he was the oldest living male to top the charts in Britain. Even though his own peeps didn't go for it, the song became a classic and was covered 25 years later by Elvis Costello for the movie Notting Hill.

7 The Iron Sheik. Old-school wrestling fans will remember Hulk Hogan's notorious nemesis. Hossein Khosrow Vaziri, former Olympic wrestler and bodyguard for the Shah of Iran, has an incredible story. Persian-Canadian brothers Jian and Page, a.k.a. The Magen Boys, have been gathering footage for years and a powerful film has emerged. ## Synopsis Channing Tatum plays John Cale, a divorced father of one who desperately wants to impress his daughter Emily (Joey King) by getting a job as security for the president of the United States (Jamie Foxx). On the day of his Secret Service job interview some very bad men (there will be no spoilers here!) invade the White House, disabling the security forces and gaining control of the president's home. Separated from his daughter, John gets some on-the-job training as he becomes POTUS' defacto guard while shooting, stabbing and fisticuffing his way to his daughter's rescue.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Been there, bombed that

White House Down. The Jamie Foxx flick isn't your typical blow 'em up blockbuster but it doesn't do much to set itself apart either

Richard: Mark, unlike the virtually identical Olympus Has Fallen, the Gerard Butler White House disaster flick that opened earlier this year, White House Down spends half-an-hour of its sprawling 137 minutes introducing the characters, which is 29 minutes more than we got in Butler's film. There's loads and loads of not terribly interesting talking, then the dome blows off the White House and director Roland Emmerich's genius for making things go boom comes into play. From that point on, it's fun stuff.

Mark: And the question becomes which is the better flick? White House Down has bigger stars, more expensive production and more action than Olympus Has Fallen. But if we use plausibility as a guideline, I think Olympus has a bit of an edge. That film almost felt like an indie, and its relative cheapness worked for it. I'm not saying that White House Down isn't fun, but there were lots of times I just didn't believe it, starting with the idea that Jamie Foxx could be elected president. On the other hand, James Woods is very believable. Too believable, maybe.

RC: Woods does disgruntled very well. I won't say any more about Woods — there will be no spoilers here — but I can say that this is a talkier-than-usual action movie. But by and large the chit chat is entertaining. Best line in the movie? "That's President Sawyer, and he has a rocket launcher!" I loved that the cheese factor was ramped up to 11 for the last hour-and-a-half.

MB: Yes, I enjoyed that too. And there's a bit of comedy thrown in. Nicolas Wright is terrific as a White House guide with SNL timing. But the director, Roland Emmerich, may have some explaining to do. This is the second time he's blown up the White House (Independence Day being the first), and I'm no Freudian, but as a foreign national he may be receiving a visit from some Homeland Security in the near future.

RC: He's the master of disaster! He's never met a monument he didn't want to destroy. Whether it be bad weather à la The Day After Tomorrow or a worldwide cataclysm as in his global warming epic 2012, the director can't seem to stop himself from trashing beloved landmarks.

MB: I just heard there's a Canadian version of this film being produced where terrorists take over 24 Sussex Dr. and get into a bitter debate with the government over who pays the utility bills.

Johnny Depp, left, as Tonto in the Lone Ranger. HANDOUT

He's not a savage and you're not in India

NED
EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

The Lone Ranger may be the biggest western to come out of Hollywood in years, but it's not star Johnny Depp's first venture into the frontier.

In 1995, Depp starred as an out-of-his-depths city slicker in Jim Jarmusch's Dead Man — not that he's seen it. "I feel somehow that Jim Jarmusch made a great and amazing sort of epic poem of a western with Dead Man," Depp says. "Haven't seen the film, but I love Jim, and I know what he's capable of, and from what I've heard, it's — and I did read the script by the way, and it was — it was wonderful."

Now, about that Lone Ranger. In taking on the iconic character of Tonto in such an iconic property, Depp — who spearheaded and executive-produced the project — saw the Lone Ranger as a chance to reverse a lot of Hollywood's past mistakes. "In the history of cinema, the Native American has been portrayed as a savage

Kooky characters

Tonto versus Captain Jack

Tonto is another addition to Johnny Depp's coterie of kooky characters, including the Mad Hatter, Hunter S. Thompson and Edward Scissorhands. But perhaps the Grand Poobah of Depp's alter egos is Pirates of the Caribbean mainstay Captain Jack Sparrow. So between the rakish pirate and the wily Comanche warrior, who would win in a fight?

"It's over for Tonto," Depp says with a weary shake of his head. "Yeah, it's over for Tonto. Captain Jack is far too dark. It wouldn't take long and it would be unpleasant."

or as something lesser than. And it was important to me to at least take a good shot at erasing that," he says.

On a more personal level, there's also the way Tonto himself — the Lone Ranger's stoic sidekick — had been portrayed. "As a very young child, I was always perturbed by the idea of Tonto being a sidekick. That just didn't register properly in my head," Depp explains. "I just thought it was potentially an opportunity to right the wrong, you know?"

And it's not just Hollywood's treatment of Native Americans that needs addressing, Depp insists. There are centuries of injustice and stereotypes he hopes his flashy summer blockbuster can help diminish. "I wanted to convey that the Native Americans were only deemed savages when Christopher Columbus hit the wrong f—ing place, and decided that he'd hit India," Depp says. "That's our history. He thought he hit India, and called the people Indians. That's our history, you know? I mean, that's pretty f—ing weird, seriously."

He's the main character in a Johnny Depp movie

NED
Metro World News in Hollywood

Armie Hammer doesn't have a future as a stand-up comic. Just minutes before I sit down for a chat with the Lone Ranger star, he attempted a joke in front of a packed press conference, Johnny Depp by his side. It did not go well.

"What do you call 64 Cherokee in a room?" he asked, interrupting Depp. "Full blood!" His punchline, unfortunately, was met with a frosty, confused silence. "That was told to me by a Comanche, so it's a safe joke," he offered.

So after that, I have to ask what your unsafe jokes are like.

Oh, no, no. I'm afraid I'm already going to get in enough trouble probably for that safe joke.

Did that feel like it didn't quite go over well?

I think it went over as best as could be expected. It's a cold room.

You're the title character here, but this is very much a Johnny Depp movie. Is there any ego-checking you need to do to get used to that idea?

He's been involved in this movie since 2006. I mean, if I actually went into it with the idea of, "I'm playing the Lone Ranger, this is my movie," then I probably would've had to go through some kind of process, but I was just happy to be there working. Even if they'd just been like, "You only have to work 50 days on this movie" — which I definitely didn't have to do, I had to work a s—load, but it was great, every minute of it.

You've got your classic west- ern hero, plus you've done the all-American G-man in J. Edgar, the Harvard twins in the Social Network and Prince Charming in Mirror, Mirror. Are you worried at all about typecasting?

Not really. I think that's just how people see me, which is fine. I mean, I'm not complaining by any means. It looks like I've been doing OK with it in terms of getting jobs. I'm not worried about getting typecast because I don't really think about types when I choose a movie. For me it's just more important about who's involved.

Are there roles that are more against type for you that you've been dying to play?

I'm sure I could do that actor masturbatory thing of, "I'd love to get face tattoos and shave my head." I don't know, I'll take whatever job has a great director and a great script.

Comic actress back 'on' in sequel

Despicable Me 2.

Kristen Wiig talks about being shy off the clock, and missing Saturday Night Live

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Kristen Wiig is trying to deal with the fact that she's always expected to be 'on.'

The comic actress and Saturday Night Live vet has made a name for herself with outlandish characters and hilarious writing, but she's actually quite shy and reserved when she's not on the clock. Unfortunately, when promoting a massive animated film like Despicable Me 2, that's not very often.

"I mean, in an interview situation I am aware that I'm being recorded and written about, so there's a kind of a persona you have to bring out a little bit," she admits. "I find that people who interview me expect probably more of a comedic personality than in real life."

Wrestling with those perceptions has perhaps gotten easier now that she's left SNL, where she became a stand-out over seven seasons with crazy characters like the Target Lady. She even enjoyed a touching kind of send-off — with each cast member and creator Lorne Michaels dancing with her during a final sketch — most other retiring SNL actors don't enjoy.

With a year's time now between Wiig and her tearful farewell from SNL, she admits she's finally getting used to not being on the sketch comedy mainstay.

"I do miss it," she admits. "It's getting easier now because they're on (summer) hiatus. I don't imagine what they're doing — not in a creepy way, but just ... it was such a big part of my life for seven years and it was a transition to leave. But it's getting better."

For her new addition to the Despicable Me world, Wiig was given some touchstones from one of her famous pre-

Gru (Steve Carell) attempts to understand his new partner, Lucy (Kristen Wiig), in Despicable Me 2, summer 2013's much-anticipated followup to Universal Pictures and Illumination Entertainment's blockbuster comedy adventure Despicable Me. HANDOUT decessors to work with: She plays Lucy, a brassy, clumsy redhead — who reminds viewers more than a little of Lucille Ball — tasked with roping retired super-villain Gru (Steve Carell) into a mission. "That's all they gave me. 'Her name is Lucy, she has red hair, go!'" Wiig says with a laugh. "I had never played a character like that before that was so enthusiastic, I guess. She's very excited."

Lucy is also fairly fearless, a trait Wiig humbly declines to apply to herself. "Um ... no," she laughs. "I don't know, in some ways, I guess. But I don't think anyone is 100 per cent fearless."

All the laughs

What makes Kristen funny

Through her time on Saturday Night Live and her jump to film with projects like Bridesmaids, Kristen Wiig has earned a legion of fans for her unique brand of humour. But just what is it that makes her so entertaining? Despicable Me 2 co-star Steve Carell breaks it down for us.

"Kristen to me is funny, and not to deconstruct Kristen's comedy, but she to me is really funny because you never see her trying to be funny," he says. "I think we're very similar in a sense that at a party or social situations we're not necessarily the funniest people in the room. It's just the two of us huddled in the corner whispering, 'How's it going?'"

Drama

Much Ado About Nothing

Director. Joss Whedon

Stars. Amy Acker, Alexis Denishof

• • • • •

Those who recognize Joss Whedon mainly as the magical man in charge of The Avengers should walk into Much Ado About Nothing restraining any bombastic expectation. Filmed in black and white at his own mansion with little-known actors/friends, this low-budget adaptation of Shakespeare's comedic romance about two pairs of lovers with varied perspectives on love may fascinate fans of the Bard's prominent prose much more than the comic book convention crowd.

Director. Paul Feig

Stars. Sandra Bullock, Melissa McCarthy

• • • • •

Sarah Ashburn (Oscar winner Sandra Bullock) is an uptight FBI agent teamed with tough-talking Boston street cop Shannon Mullins (Melissa McCarthy) to bring down a murderous drug dealer. This odd couple, buddy cop dynamic is as old as the movies, so you'd hope for the performances to breathe new life into the film's withered lungs. Instead we get the same old from two good performers. With a gag to giggle ratio of about five-to-one, more jokes miss than hit. McCarthy tries hard to raise a smile but she doesn't do anything here we haven't seen her do before and better.

Documentary

Storm Surfers 3D

Directors. Justin McMillan, Chris Nelius

Stars. Tom Carroll, Ross Clarke-Jones

• • • • •

Think of Storm Surfers as the unofficial sequel to Stacy Peralta's history of big wave surfing, Riding Giants. The film follows friends and pro big wave surfers Ross Clarke-Jones and Tom Carroll as they scour the waters surrounding their native Australia for uncharted surf spots. Firmly in middle age, both surfers address their aging bodies and shifting priorities; Carroll in particular finds brushes with dead affecting his overall outlook on the sport. But while the relationship between the two forms the core of the film, the 3D surf scenes are the real attraction, making Storm Surfers a rare case where the medium enhances rather than distracts from the film.

Unfortunate Manti Te'o scandal helped Catfish series to swim, not sink

Q&A. Co-host talks about the football star, the lessons to be learned and the comparisons between his show and The Great Gatsby

Max Joseph, co-host of MTV's Catfish: The TV Show, says he has Manti Te'o to thank for catapulting his series into the national spotlight. "Manti Te'o got catfished. It happens. We see it happen every week," Joseph said. "I mean it was amazing for the show, not so amazing for Manti Te'o."

The term, which refers to someone using a fake identity to seduce another person online, gained momentum as the title of a 2010 documentary on the topic. It has since become mainstream lingo and was used in a story line on Fox's Glee after the former Notre Dame linebacker's fake girlfriend episode. Now Joseph and his pal Nev Schulman travel the country to film people embroiled in catfish scenarios.

"You've got the catfish, who has been lying and is nervous and doesn't necessarily love the idea of meeting the other person, but maybe realizes to some degree they need to (do so) in order to move on with their life," said Joseph, explaining the show's premise. "And you've got the hopeful, who is in love with someone who has kind of evaded them, and they desperately want to meet that person to see if their love is real."

In a recent interview, the Los Angeles filmmaker discussed what's in store for the series' second season, which premiered Tuesday, and why The Great Gatsby may be the original catfish.

Why would someone who suspects their love interest is a fraud or someone lying about their identity decide to be on your show?

Most people come on the show because that's their only opportunity to either meet the other person or to come out of the catfish closet and tell the other person the truth in a kind of protected safe environment where they know that we are going to be there and we are going to mediate and kind of make sure that the other person doesn't judge them immediately. It gives them an opportunity to say their piece.

Why are catfish schemes so easy to pull off?

The more we are involved in social media, the easier it is for someone to lie about who they are and to kind of fabricate a story about them, fabricate a life that is grander than the one that they lead. That is the story of The Great Gatsby, which is a film that just came out. And obviously this has been kind of an American trope since at least the 1920s, but definitely before then. This idea that in America you can be anyone you want. You can reinvent yourself. Well, I think that the Internet has maybe taken that kind of American idea and has democratized it for the world.

What are the lessons here?
I think it's an amazing lesson for everyone out there that you got to be careful online. I don't think the Internet is necessarily a dangerous place. It's only dangerous if you don't make people earn your trust.

Do you ever get upset with people on the show?

This season we definitely met people who don't feel guilty at all and are doing it for really terrible reasons and aren't repentant about it. And there are times when Nev and I have gotten really angry with people.

After filming season one, do the stories still surprise you?

The variety of stories in season two kind of blows season one out of the water. ... The stories are crazier; more complicated, more interesting. ... Just when you think you understand why people do what they do or why a catfish would lie to someone that they're talking to and you pretty much think you know the range of reasons, along comes a story that really turns the whole thing on its head. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rascals are Groovin' to a unique reunion

Once Upon a Dream.

After 40 years, the band reunited for a theatrical concert that has had a strong run on Broadway and is now going on tour

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

A young Steven Van Zandt and Bruce Springsteen, who didn't know each other at the time, went to see The Rascals at a roller rink on the Jersey Shore in the summer of 1966.

The show made quite an impression on the future E Street Band members.

The Rascals "were absolutely amazing, and it was one of the most inspiring performances of my life," Van Zandt said. "It stayed with us — half rock, half soul — so we trace our roots very much to them."

Now, after more than 40 years apart, the original Rascals — Felix Cavaliere, Eddie Brigati, Gene Cornish and Dino Danelli — have reunited for a theatrical concert, called The Rascals: Once Upon a Dream.

Influences

"It stayed with us — half rock, half soul — so we trace our roots very much to them."

Steven Van Zandt
Talking about how the Rascals influenced him

The show, which sold out a Broadway run earlier in the spring, is now touring other cities.

Van Zandt, the co-producer, co-director and writer of the show, had tried to reunite the original members for 30 years.

"They're very idealistic guys," he says. "There's been a lot of money thrown at them, and they turned it down, and finally it came down to this idea, and I think it appealed to them."

"I wanted the show to be a great concert, but I wanted to re-establish the legacy, re-establish the history and the identity of the band. People need to be reminded, and you can't blame the public when you're gone for 40 years."

When they formed in 1965, The Rascals were part of America's answer to the British Invasion, with hits including Good Lovin', Groovin', People Got to Be Free, A Beautiful Morning and How Can I Be Sure.

The group, now in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, expanded the scope of the era's rock-pop sound with elements of soul, jazz and the use of complex arrangements and instrumentation.

In Once Upon a Dream, the band plays more than 30 hits, augmented by a few backup musicians and singers and a 50-by-25-foot LED screen, which illuminates the songs and the story of the band.

In New York, Brigati's How Can I Be Sure was a showstopper.

"I want people leaving feeling elated, with a sense of inspiration and motivation and a certain optimism that you can't come by too easily these days," says Van Zandt, who is currently on tour with the E Street Band in Europe. "I'm very proud that people are leaving the show feeling that anything is possible."

Lynch and Glazer keeping their marriage Magic alive

Magic City duo.

Actress and husband Mitch, a director/writer, adapt well to working and living together

MATT PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York City

Since the '80s, Kelly Lynch has been the kind of beautiful actress who knows how to be taken seriously.

The same year she popped up in a ridiculous Patrick Swayze sex scene in Road House, she delivered a gritty turn in Gus Van Sant's junkie saga Drugstore Cowboy. Since then, she's jumped back and forth between blockbusters and smaller, more character-driven work.

She's sometimes done that with her husband — producer, writer and director Mitch Glazer. The two reunite for the second season of Magic City, airing Fridays on Starz, on which she plays the increasingly involved former sister-in-law of '50s Miami hotelier Ike (Jeffrey Dean Morgan).

A lot of film actors are gravitating toward TV these days.

Our whole cast off-duty makes movies. And we all come from movies. A lot of movies are either $1 million things that you hope will be really cool, or they're giant cartoons. Storytelling, like in the great '70s movies like The Godfather — those aren't made anymore. Those are now TV shows on cable.

How do you work with your fellow actors?

The more a group of actors feels like a family to me, the safer I feel. If I go to a place with another person as a character, there's a foundation of friendship and respect that's really helpful. The fact that we all love each other helps. Mitch put this group together. Everyone makes me better.

What about working with your husband?

At home, he's my husband. At work, he's my boss. It's a very weird dynamic. It first happened years ago, that we had a chance to work together (on 1993's Three of Hearts). Both of us were driving to work, and one of us went, "Oh, we'll be working together."

Some film actors are amazed at how quick TV shooting is.

I always felt as an actor if I didn't have it by the third take I was in trouble. I did a pretty big movie with an actor who did 56 takes, during a shot where I had to cry. He was trying to get to a place, and by the end of it I looked like a raccoon or a squirrel — a monster. Shooting fast,

Shocking

What's it like not always knowing where your character will wind up versus a film, where there's a definite ending?

In a film you're stuck with a script. Television is open-ended. You never know who's going to live, who's going to die. I live with (Glazer), and until we get the scripts, I have no clue what's going on. Some of them have been shocking. I love that element of surprise.

it separates the grown-ups from the little kids. You just have to do it. You don't have that safety net (on TV) where you can reshoot or come back. Movies shoot three pages a day. We can shoot 12, easily. It probably doesn't sound like much, but it's daunting.

Justin case: Did Bieber bust out some black belt moves in 2012?

As if he didn't have enough current trouble dogging him, Justin Bieber's past is now coming back to haunt him. The singer is being sued for assault by a paparazzo over a May 2012 scuffle outside a Calabasas, Calif., shopping centre, according to TMZ. The photographer, Jose Hernandez Duran, claims that Bieber "physically attacked" him, leaping out of his car and hitting him with "a martial-arts-style kick" to Duran's midsection. The suit alleges that Bieber's then-girlfriend, Selena Gomez, put a stop to the incident and later apologized to Duran, saying, "I'm sorry, I don't know why he did that."

Lily-Rose says never again: Depp's daughter revokes her Belieber status

More bad news for Justin Bieber: He's losing fans rapidly, at least according to Johnny Depp, who says his 14-year-old daughter, Lily-Rose, who previously swooned for the Canadian pop star, has gone off him. "She thinks that Bieber is obviously talented and stuff, but she's now moving into other arenas of music in her life," Depp tells David Letterman during an interview. "She prefers I didn't go to concerts with her, especially don't take her to concerts. No, out of the question."

Family, friends and fans bid final ciao to Sopranos star

HEALY
Metro World News

Jamie Lynn-Sigler, who played Tony's daughter Meadow on The Sopranos, sobbed in front of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in New York City on Thursday morning at the funeral of James Gandolfini.

The New York Times reports that almost the entire cast of The Sopranos was there, including Edie Falco, Joe Pantoliano, Dominic Chianese, Steve Schirripa, Aida Turturro, Vincent Curatola and Michael Imperioli.

New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, Hilaria and Alec Baldwin, John Turturro, and David Chase were also on hand to say goodbye to the famed actor.

In a somewhat unheard of move, the public was also allowed to attend. The Times reports that two lines formed before the service: One for those who knew Gandolfini personally and one for those who didn't.

One of those waiting in that line was fan Gwen Gibbs, who drove from Kentucky to give her respects.

"I am not sure how to put it in words," she says. "He made the character of Tony Soprano feel like a real person, like someone you knew. When I heard he had died I hoped it was a hoax."

Hey, Canada, this is your long weekend. The one where you celebrate our great country with family, friends and grilled goodness.

Since this coming Monday is all about national pride, you all need to step up and fill your glass with some home-grown liquid.

It could be beer (there's a sea of amazing craft brews out there), it could be a spirit (think one of our classic Canadian whiskies) or, of course, a local wine.

Selection of our wines varies across the country. While there are some big national brands, the industry is really led by artisan winemakers producing smaller quantities of pretty fantastic juice that doesn't flow far from home.

Ontario's Henry of Pelham Winery has been an advocate for quality Canuck vino since the mid-'80s. Its 2011 Sibling Rivalry White ($12.95 to $16.99) is an irreverent New World wonder made from a blend of riesling, chardonnay and gewürztraminer.

The trio conspires to create an aromatic mix of fruit cocktail, citrus and subtle spice that rolls across the palate and makes for both an open-minded food partner and refreshing cocktail wine.

Whatever you may be drinking on July 1, make it Canadian! PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Canada, keep your meat tangy this long weekend

Chicken drumettes are the thick meaty part of the wing; they almost look like a mini leg. Here, they star in a delicious Herb and Spice Marinated Barbecue Chicken Drumettes dish.

Chef Richard Julien added 10 per cent cream to the marinade to add moisture, which helps keep chicken from drying out on the grill. Serve with

Ingredients

- 16 chicken drumettes (about 750 g/1 1/2 lb)
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) 10 per cent half-and-half cream
- 1/2 small onion, peeled
- 3 cloves garlic, peeled
- 7.5-cm (3-inch) piece of ginger, peeled and minced
- Zest and juice of 1 lemon (about 45 ml/3 tbsp of juice)
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) fresh cilantro leaves
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) butter, melted
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) each Dijon mustard, liquid honey and apple cider vinegar
- 10 ml (2 tsp) each ground cumin and coriander
- 5 ml (1 tsp) each ground turmeric and cayenne
- Salt and pepper, to taste

This recipe serves four. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

an extra thick tangy sour cream dip.

1. Pull skin off chicken drumettes; place in 20-cm (8-inch) square glass baking dish or similar size stainless-steel pan.

2. In food processor, combine, cream, onion, garlic, ginger, lemon zest and juice, cilantro, butter, mustard, honey, vinegar, cumin, coriander, turmeric, cayenne, salt and pepper; process until smooth. Pour marinade over chicken; cover and refrigerate for 2 hours to allow flavours to develop.

3. Heat grill to medium-high. Remove chicken from marinade and place on baking sheet lined with paper towels. Place chicken pieces on greased grill; reduce temperature to medium-low. Grill with lid down for 9 minutes, turn chicken over, close lid and grill for 8 minutes or until juices run clear from chicken when tested with a fork. CHEF RICHARD JULIEN OF CHEF LIVE! # There's an app for that, eh

Go high-tech this long weekend. Mobile apps for learning, celebrating and eating on Canada Day

Try searching for Canada Day in Apple's App Store, the Google Play Marketplace or BlackBerry World and the results at first blush are pretty woeful.

There are a few official apps for public Canada Day celebrations and some poorly slapped together collections of Canadian facts that

Other resources

Can't find what you're looking for through apps? All major cities across the country have their own websites that feature info on celebrating Canada Day.

don't inspire much exploration.

But dig a little deeper and there are some useful apps to celebrate during the long weekend or bone up on some Canadiana.

The official apps

The Canada Day in the Capital app, available for Apple and Android devices and BlackBerrys, is a guide to the big festivities in Ottawa, which include an appearance by astronaut Chris Hadfield and performances by Carly Rae Jepsen, Metric and Terri Clark. There are similar apps for public parties in Kanata, Ont., and Calgary. Given the flood recovery efforts in Calgary, official websites might be a better source of up-to-date information on public events still going forward.

Canadian history

The Canadian government has a free iPhone app exploring the history of the War of 1812, as does the PBS station WNED, which aired a TV documentary on the subject; (that app is also available for Android devices).

Renegade Arts Entertainment and the National Film Board of Canada partnered on a War of 1812 app (for Apple and Android devices) that tells the story of the years-long fight in graphic novel format.

The iPad app Canada 1812: Forged in Fire takes a similar approach by using comic-book-style storytelling to recreate the war's events.

The Laurier Centre for Military Strategic and Disarmament Studies also has an Apple app called Canadian Military History.

Apps for enjoying the long weekend

Parks Canada has a pair of handy apps for taking your party outdoors and eating well, which are available for Apple and Android devices and BlackBerrys. The Learn to Camp app has some tips for newbie campers on what to pack, how to start a fire, and checklists so you don't forget anything at home.

The Heritage Gourmet app has more than 70 recipes that represent traditional Canadian cuisine from across the country. You can search the app by ingredient, course, time period or region.

Your best bet for streaming some Canadian tunes is the free CBC Music app, available for Apple and Android devices and BlackBerrys, which is bound to be highlighting homegrown content. THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's like going back to high school. Only better.

From Airport to Casino, the 70s, 80s and 90s brought us some of the greatest films of all time. Blockbusters like The Terminator wowed audiences with their modern effects. Teen comedies like The Breakfast Club made us laugh at our high school foibles. Cult classics like American Graffiti defined generations. And, superstars such as Robert DeNiro, Jack Nicholson and Julia Roberts came to prominence.

Big things expected from Mooseheads at NHL draft

Big day. MacKinnon appears to be No. 1, with Drouin and Fucale destined for 1st round

ANDREW RANKIN

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

It's going to be a huge day for at least three Halifax Mooseheads players on Sunday.

Topping the list is Cole Harbour's Nathan MacKinnon, who's widely expected to be selected No. 1 overall by the Colorado Avalanche at the NHL draft in Newark, N.J.

Speaking from New York City, the 17-year-old forward said he was feeling relaxed amidst the growing hoopla over the weekend event.

"I feel pretty good right now, but I'm sure when Saturday comes I'll be feeling a little nervous and anxious," said MacKinnon on Wednesday evening. "Sure, there will be some butterflies, but right now I'm just settling in and waiting for things to come in."

Following close behind MacKinnon is his regular-season linemate Jonathan Drouin,

Nathan MacKinnon and Saint John Sea Dog Jurij Repe fight for the puck during the first round of the QMJHL playoffs in Saint John. JEFF HARPER/METRO FILE

who could be selected second by the Florida Panthers but likely third by the Tampa Bay

Lightning.

Either way, the Sainte-Agathe-des-Monts, Que., native is a definite top-five pick.

Netminder Zach Fucale rounds out the Mooseheads' three first-round locks.

TSN scout Craig Button is predicting the top-ranked North American goalie will be selected in the ninth spot by the New Jersey Devils. But there have also been rumblings that he could go as high as sixth to the Calgary Flames, who could be without their starting goalie Miikka Kiprusoff, who is reportedly retiring.

"Those are just little predictions, to me that's all they are," said Fucale. "In the end it's flattering and it's fun, but anything can happen on draft day. I'm pretty sure I'm going to be happy at the end of the day."

Then there are the Mooseheads' two dark-horse defencemen: MacKenzie Weegar and Matt Murphy.

Weegar, known for his high hockey IQ and offensive upside, could go as high as the third round. Same goes for Murphy, who's lauded for being a smart, agile defensive defenceman.

Ready for NHL journey

"This is just one step in my career and I have to keep believing in what I'm doing and I'm pretty sure in the end the work will pay off."

Tough choices await lottery GMs

Jonathan Drouin
JEFF HARPER/METRO

Here's a look at the teams with the top-five picks in the 2013 NHL draft and what they could be considering:

1. Avalanche

Several members of the Avalanche have been beating the drum about taking a forward with the first pick, bypassing defenceman and Denver kid Seth Jones. Centre Nathan MacKinnon, left-winger Jonathan Drouin and centre Aleksander Barkov head the list.

Colorado is already stacked at forward, but MacKinnon may be too good to pass up. If members of the Avs front office are truthful, he'll be No. 1.

2. Panthers

Seeing Jones fall to them wouldn't be the worst thing in the world for the Panthers, who lack a top defenceman of the future. If Jones goes No. 1, Florida would be foolish not to take one of the elite forwards.

Drouin would seem to fit well.

3. Lightning

Unlike the Avalanche and Panthers, the Lightning don't need a star to build around. Steven Stamkos is doing just fine as the face of a franchise that includes Art Ross Trophy-winner Marty St. Louis and young defenceman Victor Hedman.

Tampa Bay has a strong pool of prospects and could use a young, talented forward who may be NHL-ready. Barkov and Valeri Nichushkin would fit, but so would Drouin if he slips to No. 3.

4. Predators

The Predators could use offence and a lot of it.

It's a draft full of playmakers, and Nashville is especially in need after trading Martin Erat for Filip Forsberg. They're in a spot to take one of the forwards who drop between MacKinnon, Drouin, Barkov and Nichushkin.

5. Hurricanes

Of teams in the top five, the Hurricanes seem the most able to bounce back into the playoffs in 2013-14, which makes the No. 5 pick challenging for GM Jim Rutherford.

Carolina could try to take an NHL-ready player, like Nichushkin if he's left, trade the pick for immediate help or build depth. Justin Faulk and Ryan Murphy give Carolina strong defencemen, but Darnell Nurse from Sault Ste. Marie may be the best player available. THE CANADIAN PRESS

No. 1! Canadian Bennett shocks basketball world

NBA draft. Cleveland's Canadian love affair continues with pick of swingman 1st overall Toronto's Anthony Bennett made Canadian basketball history Thursday, becoming the first player from north of the border to be selected first overall in the NBA draft.

The Cleveland Cavaliers stunned the league by selecting the UNLV freshman forward, who has starred for Canada's junior team and was the Mountain West Conference player of the year.

"I'm just as surprised as everybody else," Bennett said. "I didn't really have any idea who's going No. 1 or who was going No. 2. I heard everything was up for grabs. But I'm just real happy, glad that I have this opportunity, and I just got to thank God for everything."

Tristan Thompson of Toronto was selected No. 4 by the Cavaliers in the 2011 draft, making him the highest Canadian draft pick before Thursday. Teen phenom Andrew Wiggins of Thornhill, Ont., is projected to go first overall in 2014.

"Yeah. It's just crazy. Made history. I can't really complain about that," said Bennett, who had 25 to 30 family members with him in New York. "It's just like a long time dream that I had since I first started playing basketball, even though it was six or seven years ago. It's just crazy. Next year with Wiggins, hopefully he does well at Kansas. I'm rooting for him. I'm pretty sure he'll get that No. 1 spot."

Steve Nash of Victoria, taken 15th overall by Phoenix in 1996 and currently the GM of Canada's men's team, retweeted the NBA's announcement adding: "Proud on Proud!"

Judge denies Hernandez bail

Former New England Patriots tight end Aaron Hernandez, charged with murder for what prosecutors say was the execution-style killing of a friend near his house, was denied bail on Thursday.

Hernandez's lawyer argued that his celebrity status means even if he wanted to flee he couldn't and that the case against him is circumstantial.

But Bristol County Assistant District Attorney Bill McCauley called the evidence in the June 17 slaying of Odin Lloyd overwhelming.

Jays dropped by Lester in Boston

Jon Lester pitched into the eighth inning before leaving with an apparent injury, and Dustin Pedroia homered in a seven-run second to help the Boston Red Sox beat the Toronto Blue Jays 7-4 in the opener of a four-game series Thursday night.

Toronto, which reeled off 11 straight wins this month, had won 12 of its past 14 games and 15 of 19 to close within 6 1/2 games of the AL East-leading Red Sox before running into Lester.

Flames send Tanguay to Avs

The Calgary Flames have sent left-winger Alex Tanguay and defenceman Cory Sarich to Colorado in exchange for right-wing David Jones and defenceman Shane O'Brien.

The 33-year-old Tanguay, a former Halifax Moosehead, returns to the team that drafted him 12th overall in 1998. He scored a career-high 29 goals for the Avalanche in the 2005-06 season. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Raonic irate after 2nd-round loss

Milos Raonic didn't mince words when describing his latest early exit from Wimbledon.

Raonic was eliminated in the second round on Thursday with a 7-5, 6-4, 7-6 (4) decision to Igor Sijsling.

"At one stage I lost 12 points in a row — pathetic," Raonic said.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

By all means, withdraw your support from a friend if they have let you down. It's not as if they weren't warned. You told them what would happen if they did not shape up.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Life is full of surprises and over the next couple of days you will be amazed by some of the things that happen. While others are too shocked to act, find ways to cash in.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Where business and financial matters are concerned, you can and you must look on the bright side today. If you let negative thoughts take hold, almost inevitably it will lead to negative events occurring.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

It might be better to clear the air today than allow a feud of some kind to drag on. Most likely there is no "right" or "wrong" involved, it's just that you see things in different ways. Can't you accept that?

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You don't have to conform to other people's standards just because they expect it of you. The only thing that matters is what you expect of yourself. Do what feels right and, if others don't like it, too bad.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are a few creative influences in your chart right now. Today, you need to decide what you're going to focus on. One thing done well is better than many things done poorly.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Make allowances for a friend's behaviour today. It is better to forgive and forget than make an issue of something you can't change. Besides, think of all the times they have forgiven you in the past.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

The more you search for a solution to a problem, the further away it seems to get. Maybe you should take the hint and stop looking so hard. Everything will work out for the best when the time is right.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Watch out you don't spend more than you can afford today. If you do feel the need to splash out on something costly, make sure there is a money-back guarantee — just in case you change your mind.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You could be more emotional than usual over the next 24 hours. Hide your sensitive feelings from critics, who will play on them if they think it might damage your rep.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may have every reason to be annoyed but you are also advised to keep your feelings to yourself as much as possible. Don't let your own behaviour become an issue.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Let the world know what your opinions are, even if they are largely at odds with the way most people view things. The masses are easily manipulated but you have never followed the herd. SALLY BROMPTON
